

They Spoke to Us

Making Conference Part of Our Lives

God, . . . we attain hope.” —President Dieter F. Uchtdorf (see page 21).

For Youth

- President Henry B. Eyring taught of building unity by speaking kindly of one another: “I can promise you a feeling of peace and joy when you speak generously of others in the Light of Christ” (see page 68).

- “Young people, [sacrament meeting] is not a time for whispered conversations on cell phones or for texting,” said Elder Dallin H. Oaks (see page 17).

How will you make the teachings in general conference part of your life and the lives of your family members? Consider using some of these statements and questions as a starting point for discussion or personal pondering.

You can also read, listen to, or watch general conference talks online at www.lds.org.

For Children

- “May we be good citizens of the nations in which we live and good neighbors in our communities, reaching out to those of other faiths, as well as to our own.” —President Thomas S. Monson (see page 106).

- “The children of God have more in common than they have differences. . . . God will help us see a difference in someone else not as a source of irritation but as a contribution. The Lord can help you see and value what another person brings which you lack.” —President Henry B. Eyring (see page 68).

- “As we study the scriptures, speak with our Heavenly Father daily, [and] commit to keep the commandments of

For Adults

- President Boyd K. Packer recounted several of the trials faced by early Latter-day Saints (see page 88). How did their faith strengthen them during these trials? How can your faith strengthen you? (For additional ideas, see Elder Robert D. Hales’s talk, on page 72.)

- Elder D. Todd Christofferson identified three things we need in order to be a Zion people (see page 37). Make a list of the ways you can progress in each of these areas.

- Elder M. Russell Ballard and Silvia H. Allred
