A Year on Temple Square

Thank you for sharing “A Year on Temple Square” in your magazine and online at friendlds.org. My family has enjoyed it so much that we decided to spend a day on Temple Square during a recent trip to Utah. We got to see the temple where our mom and dad were married. We also toured the Beehive House and talked to the sister missionaries. Our favorite part was seeing the Christus statue and watching videos about how families can be together forever. We had so much fun!

Angela, Natalie, and Sarah P., ages 4, 7, and 9, Oregon

The Friend Inspires Me

I am really grateful for the Friend. I especially like “Come Listen to a Prophet’s Voice.” It inspires me to choose and do what is right. I also like the Friend and Primary Web sites. I know the gospel is true.

Nephi K., age 11, California

The Friend Helps Me Choose

There was a story in the April 2010 issue called “The Strength to Choose.” It was about choosing to make the right decisions. In the story, Chris chose not to smoke. It reminded me that I can make my own decisions. One time my friend asked me to play on Sunday. I said no because I wanted to follow My Gospel Standards.

Mallory P., age 10, Idaho

Building a Temple

I was sick on the day of stake conference. I wanted to keep the Spirit with me, so I made a temple out of plastic blocks.

Madeline F., age 10, Idaho

Gifts of COURAGE

By President Henry B. Eyring
First Counselor in the First Presidency

We have great helps to give us courage in this life. The greatest is the Atonement of Jesus Christ. Because of what He did, sins can be washed away in the waters of baptism. We can renew that blessing when we partake of the sacrament in faith and with a repentant heart.

We receive the Spirit of Christ at birth. That gives us the power to know when a choice would lead toward eternal life.

The Holy Ghost lets us express thanks and ask for help in prayer with the clarity and confidence we once enjoyed with our Heavenly Father and which we will have when we return to Him. That communication with God helps banish fear from our hearts as it builds faith and love of Heavenly Father and Jesus Christ.

Spiritual gifts are another help. We receive the Spirit of Christ at birth. That gives us the power to know when a choice would lead toward eternal life. The scriptures are a sure guide when we read them with the Holy Ghost as our companion.

The Prophet Joseph Smith in his service had reason to be fearful. But God gave him courage.

God has given us more than enough help to banish fear and give us courage, whatever we may face in life. As we reach out for His help, He can lift us toward eternal life. ♦

He that asketh, receiveth (3 Nephi 27:29).

I could tell Mom was upset by the look on her face as she hung up the phone.

“Who was it?” I asked.

“That was Tim’s mom,” Mom said.

Tim was a friendly boy from my class in school last year. He was a good basketball player, and once he brought his pet lizard to class.

Mom sat down next to me on the couch. “Tim’s mom said the doctors just found out that Tim has cancer,” she said.

Mom explained that cancer is a sickness, but not like a cold or the flu. She said Tim would have to stay in the hospital for a long time. It would be so expensive that Tim’s family might have to sell their home.

That night during family prayer, Mom asked Heavenly Father to bless and comfort Tim’s family. Then she said, “And please help us to know how we can help Tim.”

As I lay in bed a little while later, I thought about Mom’s prayer. But what could I do to help? I said a short prayer. “Heavenly Father, please let me know what I can do to help Tim.”

When I opened my eyes, I looked around my darkened room. I noticed a dump truck that I hadn’t used in months and a puzzle that was too easy for me now. Suddenly, my heart started to get warm.

The next morning I burst into the kitchen and announced, "I want to sell my old toys and give the money to Tim."

"I think that's a great idea," Mom said.

We found a big box and filled it with toys and games I no longer played with.

"I'll bet Grandma has some old toys," Mom said.

"Maybe our neighbors do too," I said.

We drove to Grandma's house, and she helped us round up toys from her basement. Then we walked around our neighborhood and collected more. By the end of the day we had quite a few boxes full of toys and games. My heart pounded when I looked at them and thought about Tim.

On Saturday, we had a yard sale. A table in our front yard overflowed with dolls, trucks, stuffed animals, and board games. I put a picture of Tim on a large can. I told people that all of the money from our yard sale would go to help Tim and his family.

By afternoon, almost all of the toys were gone, and our can was filled with dollar bills and change.

That night I wrote a letter to Tim telling him that we were thinking of him and praying for him. I told him about our yard sale and put the letter and the money in the envelope. My heart felt warm, and I knew that I was doing a good thing for Tim and his family.

About a week later, I got a letter from Tim and his mom. They said they were filled with gratitude that I had thought to do such a thing. I knew it was Heavenly Father who helped me know how I could help. All I had to do was ask, listen, and then do it. ♦

The Church History Museum

Come with us this month for a look at an important place on Temple Square.

Triptych: A piece of art consisting of three panels side by side.

By Chad E. Phares
Church Magazines

Blake and Ellie C. weren't there when the Nauvoo Illinois Temple was built. They also weren't there when the first Book of Mormon was published or when the Salt Lake Tabernacle was finished.

However, when this brother and sister from

Layton, Utah, visited the Church History Museum in Salt Lake City, they learned that they could still feel the same spirit felt by those who were there.

Stained Glass: Glass colored for decorative purposes.

Blake and Ellie started their tour by looking at a stained-glass triptych that depicts the appearance of Heavenly Father and Jesus Christ to Joseph Smith in the Sacred Grove. The triptych is at the beginning of the museum exhibit for a good reason. Without the First Vision, there would be no Church history.

As people learned about the First Vision and the Book of Mormon, more and more converts joined the Church. Many of them gathered in Nauvoo, Illinois.

In Nauvoo, the Lord commanded the Saints to build a temple. The Nauvoo Temple was decorated with several sunstones on its exterior. At the museum, Blake and Ellie saw a copy of an original sunstone.

Many temples have been built since the Nauvoo Temple was completed in 1846. There are now more than 130 temples all across the world. Many include an angel Moroni statue atop the temple.

New Children's Exhibit

This month, the museum opens a new children's exhibit about the Book of Mormon. The exhibit will have displays and activities based on stories from the Book of Mormon and the importance of sharing and living its teachings.

The announcements of the construction of many of the temples have taken place from behind the pulpit in the Salt Lake Tabernacle. The museum includes a replica of the original pulpit and rostrum, as well as a few rows of pews.

Pulpit: A high reading desk used in conducting a worship service.

Printing Press: A machine that prints books, newspapers, or magazines.

Rostrum: A platform raised above the surrounding level to give prominence to the person on it.

In the years after Joseph Smith received the First Vision, the Lord commanded him to translate the gold plates, which included writings of ancient prophets. The translation was published on a printing press as the Book of Mormon. One of the museum exhibits includes a printing press and a Book of Mormon that was printed on it in 1830.

A Happy Helper

By Tina Dean

(Based on a true story)

Let us cheerfully do all things that lie in our power (D&C 123:17).

Mom, I shouldn't have to do all of these dishes!" Roxanne complained. "David didn't do them last night, and now I have to do his dishes too. Can't he help me?"

"David is helping me with something else right now," Mom said.

"But it's not fair!" Roxanne said loudly.

"Please speak nicely," Mom said.

Just then, David poked his head around the corner, laughing and making faces. "Yeah," he whispered so Mom couldn't hear. "Speak nicely!"

Roxanne put her hand under the running faucet and threw a handful of water at David.

"Roxanne!" Mom exclaimed.

Roxanne tried to explain, but Mom sent her to her room. Roxanne lay on her bed until Mom came in to talk.

"Roxanne, how do you feel right now?"

"Angry."

"Would you rather feel happy?" Mom asked.

"Well, yes," Roxanne said.

"I know I asked you to do more dishes than normal, and that's hard," Mom said. "And I know it isn't always easy to get along with your brother. But don't forget that you're always in charge of your feelings."

Roxanne thought. Even though she would rather feel happy, it wasn't easy to let go of her anger.

"It's hard to change how I feel," Roxanne said.

"I understand," Mom agreed. "I was feeling upset because we have visitors coming tomorrow, and I'm worried that we won't be ready. But then I remembered that I would rather be happy, so I said a prayer and chose to feel good instead."

Mom gave Roxanne a quick hug. "I need your help tonight," she said. "When you feel better, I hope you will join me in the kitchen."

Roxanne did want to help Mom. She knelt down by her bed. At first she didn't feel like praying. Then she started telling Heavenly Father how she felt and asked Him to help her be happy again. She remembered how tired Mom looked and decided to pray for her too.

After her prayer, Roxanne felt calm enough to go back into the kitchen. As she walked in, Mom smiled and handed her a sponge.

Roxanne eyed the stacks of dishes in both sinks and on the counter. She sighed, then she started washing, one dish at a time. Soon, the chore didn't seem so bad. And before the first sink was empty, she was even humming a little. ♦

How can I prepare to serve a mission?

Elder David A. Bednar of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles shares some of his thoughts on this subject.

The most important thing you can do to prepare for a call to serve is to become a missionary long before you go on a mission.

Increase in your desire to serve God.

Begin to think as missionaries think.

Read what missionaries read.

Pray as missionaries pray.

Avoid the worldly influences that cause the Holy Ghost to withdraw.

Grow in confidence in recognizing and responding to spiritual promptings.

You are preparing for a lifetime of missionary service. Be a missionary at all times and in all places.

Ensign, Nov. 2005, 46.

Bulletin Board

In the month of November, keep a “thankful jar” on your desk or dresser. Every day, think of one thing you are thankful for and place a small object in the jar, such as a dry bean, button, bead, or colorful piece of paper. Try to put one thing in the jar each day during the month. (If you put in more than one a day, that’s great!) At the end of the month you will have a jar full of gratitude and blessings!

2. Sit in a circle with three or more friends.
3. Pass the two balls around in the same direction, starting on opposite sides of the circle. See how long it takes the cat to catch the mouse!

Prophets Foretell the Coming of Jehovah to Earth

By Diane L. Mangum

What an important time it was when we all sat in the Grand Council in Heaven and learned that Heavenly Father's oldest son, Jehovah, would be the Savior for us all! But when we came to earth, the memories of that important time were wiped away. So Heavenly Father sent prophets to teach us again about His plan.

For thousands of years, prophets taught that the Savior would come to earth so we could return to live in heaven again.

More than 2,400 years before Jehovah came to earth, Noah taught about Him. Almost a thousand years later, Moses saw Jehovah on a mountain and had a vision of God's great plan.

About 750 years before Jehovah came to earth, Micah prophesied that He would be born in the small village of Bethlehem.

Many Names

The prophet Isaiah had a special calling to teach people about the Savior. He wrote that a young woman, a virgin, would have a baby. He described great things this baby would do and be: "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace" (Isaiah 9:6).

The scriptures tell us other names for our Savior. Lord, God, Redeemer, Creator, and Shepherd are all names for Jesus Christ.

What Does the Name Jesus Christ Mean?

About 600 years before Jehovah came to earth, the prophet Daniel called Him the Messiah, which means Noah taught about Jehovah 2,400 years before He came to earth.

Shepherd

Many people in Isaiah's time knew how shepherds took care of their flocks of sheep. When Isaiah called the Lord our "Shepherd," he was teaching us that the Lord will take care of us.

Isaiah prophesied about Mary giving birth to Jesus.

“the anointed one.” In ancient times, a man was anointed with special oil when he was chosen to be a king or priest, so “anointed one” means someone chosen for a special job. Messiah is another word for Christ.

When the great day was coming that the Lord was to be born in Bethlehem, an angel told Mary and Joseph to name the baby Jesus. The name Jesus means “Savior” or “God is help.” Because Jesus atoned for our sins, we can repent and receive the gift of eternal life. Jesus was chosen for this special job before the world was created. The name Jesus Christ perfectly describes what the Lord did for us. ♦

Daniel called Jehovah the Messiah, which is another word for Christ.

Redeemer

In the Garden of Gethsemane, the Lord Jesus Christ took upon Himself the sins of each of us. He redeemed us from sin so we can repent and return to live with Heavenly Father again.

Practicing

Alexis S. of
Narragansett, Rhode Island

By Jan Pinborough
Church Magazines

Every school morning at 7:15, harp music cascades from a house in Narragansett, Rhode Island. Who is making such beautiful music?

It's 10-year-old Alexis.

What's her secret formula for playing so well?

"I practice every day," she says with a smile.

Alexis almost always practices for half an hour before catching the school bus at 8 a.m.

Isn't all that practice boring? Not to Alexis. Ever since she was a baby, she has loved listening to her mother play the harp. She was excited on her third birthday when her mom gave her her first lesson.

At Christmastime, Alexis plays her harp at a historic mansion called "The Breakers."

Her Talents

Now the two play together in a harp ensemble made up of adults—plus Alexis. She likes the exciting, up-tempo pieces. At Christmastime—when the group plays for visitors in a historic mansion called “The Breakers” in nearby Newport—it makes those early-morning practice sessions worth the sacrifice.

Swish!

After school, Alexis practices another talent—sinking free throws. She started practicing about a year ago after she joined a county recreational basketball team. To her surprise, she placed third in a countywide free-throw contest! Alexis likes competing, even if it’s just in a game of H-O-R-S-E with her dad or her older brother, Dallin.

Not all of Alexis’s talents are the kind that win trophies or medals. She has a funny sense of humor that keeps her family laughing. She also likes writing. For Mother’s Day she wrote her mom a silly story about a little girl who is afraid to turn off the lights.

Gospel Talents

Alexis also has a talent for kindness. In her class at school she noticed a boy with autism who didn’t have any friends. He was having a hard time learning and behaving appropriately. Alexis and four other girls decided to befriend him. They started helping him with his schoolwork and playing with him at recess. Pretty soon, he started getting along better with others. He’s a really good friend now, Alexis says.

As the only member of the Church in her school, Alexis has lots of chances to practice living gospel standards. Sometimes it can be hard—like when she had to turn down an invitation to her best friend’s birthday party on Sunday. But Alexis doesn’t really mind. She knows it’s important to keep the Sabbath day holy. Besides, she’s learned that the more you practice something, the easier it gets! ♦

When I am kind to others, my heart sings (Children's Songbook, 145).

Carter snarled and growled in the backseat of the car.

He could see his reflection in the rearview mirror. He looked just like a Tyrannosaurus rex! Carter held up two fingers like claws and turned to his brothers.

“Are you excited to see the dinosaurs?” he growled.

McKay and Stockton raised their fingers like claws and roared, “Yes!”

Carter’s family was going to the museum to see the new T. rex fossil on display. Carter and his brothers were excited to see the skeleton of a real dinosaur. Carter was especially excited because he wanted to get a dinosaur T-shirt from the museum gift shop.

When the family arrived at the museum, Carter, McKay, and Stockton looked at everything, sometimes twice. They pushed buttons that roared different dinosaur roars. They stacked wooden dinosaur eggs into dinosaur nests. But best of all was the T. rex fossil.

The skeleton was huge! The dinosaur’s clawed toes were bigger than Carter’s whole head. Carter couldn’t decide between smiling because he was so happy or snarling like a dinosaur.

On the way out of the museum, Dad took Carter into the gift shop. “I can tell you liked seeing that dinosaur,” he said. “Pick out a T-shirt to share with your brothers to remember the fun we had together today.”

Carter looked through all the shirts carefully. He chose a black one with a T. rex skull baring its teeth, just like the one in the museum.

In the car, Carter was so excited that he put the T-shirt on over his regular shirt right away.

“You picked the best one!” McKay said.

“It’s for all of us to share,” Carter said. He leaned back so McKay could see the T. rex’s teeth better. “But I really want to wear it tomorrow so I can show my friends at school.”

“Sure you can,” McKay said. “I know how much you wanted a T. rex shirt.”

Carter settled back in his seat and thought about all the things he could tell his friends about the museum.

He thought about how much he and his brothers had liked the dinosaur.

Then he thought that McKay would probably want to wear the shirt to school too so he could tell his friends about the great day they had.

Carter decided he would love to see McKay happy, so as soon as they got home he took off the shirt and handed it to McKay. "You wear it to school tomorrow, McKay!" he said.

"Really?" McKay asked.

"I know you like T. rex too. I can wear it the next day."

"Wow, thanks!" McKay hugged Carter and bounded out of the room to try on the shirt.

Carter felt warm and happy knowing he had made McKay so happy.

"I was happy at the museum, and I was happy wearing the T. rex T-shirt," Carter thought. "But now I'm the happiest of all!" ♦

When you share with someone younger, you really stand tall in their eyes.

Wow, Matt. You're huge!

In October we asked you to pay close attention when listening to the talks of the prophet and apostles at general conference. Now you can test yourself to see how much you remember. If you took notes or used the conference notebook from friend.lds.org, feel free to use them. Look at the topics listed on this page and draw a line from the topics to the General Authority who spoke about them. Some topics and names may be used more than once.

A Day to DECIDE

By Ruth Kathryn Day

(Based on a true story)

The Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it (Mosiah 13:19).

Meghan flopped down in the big chair and put her scriptures on the table in front of her. Five-year-old Tommy came and stood next to Meghan's chair. Then he picked up her scriptures.

"Meg, tell me a story," he begged.

"I will later, Tommy," she said.

"I want to hear about Abinadi."

"OK, Tommy, I will tell you the story about Abinadi after dinner."

Tommy looked disappointed about having to wait. The doorbell rang, and Dad went to answer it.

"It's for you, Meghan," Dad said.

She loved how Dad always called her Meghan, never Meg. It made her feel grown up. She stood up and walked to the door. Her best friend, Sara, was there, smiling.

"Hi, Sara. Come in," Meghan said.

"I can't, Meg. My dad has free tickets to the amusement park! Can you come?" Sara was bursting with excitement.

"I don't know," Meghan said. "It's Sunday."

"So what? These are free tickets. Come on, you have to go," Sara begged. "You're my best friend!"

"Well, I have to ask my parents."

"Hurry up and ask, then change your clothes. You can't go in a skirt," Sara said impatiently. "My dad wants to leave in 15 minutes. I'll wait for you in the car."

Meghan nearly ran into the kitchen. Dad was setting the table for dinner.

"Sara's dad has free tickets to the amusement park, and she asked me to go with her!" she said.

"That sounds like fun," Dad said. "When is the big day?"

Meghan hesitated. "Well, the tickets are for today."

"Meghan, you know what Mom and I think about those kinds of activities on Sunday," Dad said. "But I think you are old enough to make your own decisions. After all, you are 10 now."

Meghan looked at her father. He looked serious.

"You mean it, Dad?" she asked.

"Sure, I mean it. What do you think you should do, Meghan?" he said.

"Well, I know we should keep the Sabbath day holy and all that, but these are free tickets and you know how much it costs to go to the amusement park. I will be saving a lot of allowance money if I go with Sara."

"That is true," Dad said. "You would save money."

"Is it OK if I go?"

"You can make your own decision, Meghan," Dad said.

"Yahoo!" Meghan yelled. She ran to her bedroom and began to pull out clothes to wear. Then she looked up and saw Tommy standing in the doorway. He was holding her scriptures.

"Are you going with Sara?" Tommy asked.

Suddenly Meghan got a funny feeling inside. She knew what she needed to do. She smiled at Tommy and then she dropped the shirt back into her drawer.

"No, Tommy, it's Sunday. I have to go tell Sara I can't go with her today. Then I will be back to read you that story."

Tommy grinned. "The one about Abinadi?" he asked.

"Yes, the story about Abinadi." Meghan smiled at her younger brother and hurried outside to tell Sara. ♦

Trying to Be Like Jesus

Missionary Moments

I like to tell my friends at school about Jesus. When I ask my friends if they believe in Jesus, most of them say no. So I ask them to come to church to learn about Him. One time the missionaries asked my family to give out pass-along cards to our friends and neighbors. I took one and ran through the field to my friend's house. My friend wasn't home, but I asked his grandma to give him the card and tell him it was about Jesus. Then I ran back home through the field. The field was full of nettles, and I got cuts on my legs. My mum asked me why I went through the field when I knew it was full of stinging nettles. I told her that I wanted my friend to know about Jesus. I like to tell people about our Church. It makes me happy, and I want them to be happy too.

Amber B., age 6, England

Helping at Home

Usually during the day, it's just my mom, me, and my little brother at home. My mom was sick one day. I helped out by playing with my little brother and getting him snacks and drinks without being asked. I feel good when I am helpful, because Jesus Christ wants us to be.

Boaz S., age 4, Wyoming

The Switch to Saturday

I was very disappointed when I found out that my first baseball game of the season was on a Sunday. I wanted to keep the Sabbath day holy, so my parents told my coach I would miss the first game. Although I was sad about missing the game, I felt good that I was following Jesus. A few days before the game, my coach called to say they had rescheduled the game for Saturday. I was very glad! Not only did I get to go to my first game of the season, but I also got to be the pitcher.

Isaac P., age 9, Massachusetts

Turning Off the TV

One Saturday when my little brother and I were watching cartoons, there was a bad show on. The girls in the show were not dressed modestly. I turned the TV off. I felt very good after I did. I knew I had followed Jesus Christ.

Carson A., age 6, Texas

A Good Correction

One day my friend was using the Lord's name in vain. I asked her not to, and she asked me why. I said, "Because we don't say that." She apologized. The next time she said it around me, she corrected herself. I'm glad I could help a friend.

Sheyla H., age 10, Hawaii

An Honest Letter

During a spelling test at school my teacher said the word we were to spell. I did not understand what he said and asked him to repeat it. After he did, I still did not know what the word was. I took a quick peek at my neighbor's paper and wrote the same word on my paper. I received 100 percent on my test. That night I felt really bad about what I had done. I told my mom what I had done and that I was scared to tell my teacher. We decided to write my teacher a letter and tell him the truth. I also asked if I could retake the test. I went to school and handed my teacher the letter. He read it and said that I could not retake the test, but that he would mark the one word wrong. I felt so much better inside. I did not get 100 percent on my test, but it was worth it.

Emma W., age 10, Utah

Sharing the Prize

I went to a friend's birthday party. We ate cake and broke a piñata. When the piñata broke, everybody ran to the candy as fast as they could to get lots and lots. There was a boy who didn't get any. I had lots of candy, so I shared with him. I felt good as I shared candy with him.

Super-Fast Service

By Chad E. Phares

(Based on a true story) Live in thanksgiving daily (Alma 34:38).

1. Truman was racing around the dining room table when he saw Mom place an empty box on the kitchen counter and start to fill it with food.

What are you doing, Mom?

Thanksgiving is coming. I thought we could do service for another family by giving them food for a Thanksgiving dinner. Do you want to help?

Sure.

2. Truman ran to the pantry and found a box of stuffing mix.

Do you think they would want this?

Yes, I think they would be thankful for it. Go ahead and put it in.

3. Truman raced to the box and put the stuffing mix inside. Then he ran back to the pantry.

I'm going to be your super-fast helper, Mom.

That sounds great. Can you find some corn?

4. Truman quickly looked through the pantry and grabbed two cans of corn. He rushed back to the box and placed them inside. He was having fun helping as fast as he could. He put a lot of food in the box. Later, he even helped put a frozen turkey inside.

Now what are we going to do?

When it gets dark, Dad will take you to deliver the box.

Can we do it super fast?

Yes. Super fast.

6. When it got dark, Dad, Truman, and his older brother, Ethan, carried the box to the car. They drove for a couple of minutes until Dad parked down the street from the family's house.

OK, guys. We're going to put the box on the doorstep, knock on the door, and run.

Truman was excited about the running part.

7. Dad carried the box as Truman and Ethan walked quietly behind him. When Dad put the box down on the doorstep and knocked on the door, all three of them ran back to the car as fast as they could. Truman ran faster than ever.

8. As they drove away, Truman looked out the back window. He saw someone open the door, look around, and smile. He felt good about helping a family have a Thanksgiving dinner.

Do you think anybody saw us?

No way, Dad! We were super fast!

What Do You See?

President Thomas S. Monson has told us that our homes should be places where we can feel peace and love. Look at the swirled photos and see if you can guess what other things we might find in our homes. Use the hints to help.

1. Hint: "Thou preparast a table before me" (see Psalm 23:5).
2. Hint: We should "seek . . . out of the best books words of wisdom" (see D&C 88:118).
3. Hint: Missionaries are told to take no thought about what they should eat or drink. The Lord will provide (see D&C 84:81).
4. Hint: We should "cease to sleep longer than is needful" (see D&C 88:124).

A Second Thanksgiving

By Jane McBride Choate
(Based on a true story)

Father, turn thine ear to me; let me offer thanks to thee for thy wise and tender care of thy children ev'rywhere (Hymns, no. 306).

Aron watched the snowy scenery whiz by the car window. His family was returning home after spending Thanksgiving with their grandparents and cousins. Soon he fell asleep in the back-seat, along with his two sisters.

Suddenly the car swerved, and Aaron jerked awake. The car rolled over once and then came to a stop with a jolt.

“What happened?” Aaron asked.

“I fell asleep at the wheel,” Dad said in a shaky voice. He reached out to touch Mom’s cheek. “Are you all right?”

Mom nodded and turned to look at Aaron and his sisters.

“We’re all right, Mom,” Aaron said. He was grateful his parents always insisted that everyone wear seat belts and that Kaitlyn was in her car seat.

Nicole reached for his hand. Aaron squeezed her hand in return.

The family sat huddled in the car, waiting for the ambulance to arrive.

When the paramedics arrived, they examined everyone. “It’s a miracle that your family came through alive,” one of the paramedics said.

“It is a miracle,” Mom said.

The ambulance took Aaron’s family to the nearest hospital. Mom got six stitches on her cheek, but no one else needed treatment.

Then they took their car to a service station to have it checked out. The car was safe to drive, so Aaron’s family resumed their trip. When they finally got home, it was just before midnight. Everyone felt tired and shaken.

“There is something we need to do,” Mom said.

They all knelt on the living room floor. Dad paused a few moments. Then he began, “Father, we come to thee in thanksgiving.”

After the prayer, everyone remained on their knees. Then Mom got up and headed to the kitchen. “I think we all need something to eat,” she said. She pulled meat and bread from the refrigerator and started making sandwiches.

Aaron thought it was funny that they were having dinner at midnight. Then he realized they hadn’t eaten anything since lunch. “Is this like a second Thanksgiving?” he asked.

Dad smiled for the first time since the accident. “That’s right, Aaron. We have more than usual to thank Heavenly Father for.” ♦

My Church Day Poem

During church I'm never bored,
Whilst I'm thinking of the Lord.

I love to sing a lot of hymns;
They never are very dim.

When we take the sacrament,
The feelings are magnificent.

Valiant class is very fun,
Especially when the work is done.

Young Men is always packed,
It's challenging sometimes—that's a fact.

When we leave church with our spirits full,
The rest of the day isn't dull.

Heaven

Will there be puffy clouds,
Or pedestals of blue?
Will angels have robes of white,
Or will they be every hue?
Will there be halos on our heads,
Or just plain heads of hair?
These questions will not be answered
For quite some time, I bet,
But one thing that is for sure:
Heaven is so beautiful, it will surely make you stare.

Family Home Evening

When family home evening begins,
we all sit in our chairs.
First we sing the songs, and then we say the prayer.

But I can't wait until the game,
'cause that's when we have fun!

When We Serve Others, We Serve God

By Sandra Tanner and Cristina Franco

Happiness comes when we obey God's commandments. Jesus Christ taught the first and the second commandments. He said, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart." Then He said, "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself" (Matthew 22:37, 39). We can obey these commandments by serving others. That means we do something kind for them. When we serve others we can be happy.

Jesus showed us how to do this. He came to earth to help us. Everywhere He went He helped people. He taught people the gospel. He visited and blessed people who were sick. He helped people who had disabilities. He was a friend to the lonely. By serving others, Jesus did what Heavenly Father wanted Him to do. In Mosiah 2:17 we learn that when we serve someone else we are really serving God.

President Thomas S. Monson encourages us to serve others. Children around the world serve those in need, and their happiness shines through when they share their stories.

Max said: "At my preschool I helped clean the tables and chairs for my teachers. It made me feel good to help someone without being asked first."

Carson and Kyleigh said: "When our grandma was in the hospital we decided to give her a special gift by cleaning her house really well before she got home. It made us feel really good to do this for her."

Brittish said: "When my mom broke her leg she needed to use a wheelchair. I helped with my three brothers and sister at home, and I was able to help my mom get the things she needed. Service makes me feel great!"

When we obey the commandment to love and serve others we are serving God and we are blessed with happiness. Try it yourself and see that this is true!

Fear not, I am with thee; oh, be not dismayed (Hymns, no. 85).

Lucinda looked at the note and shoved it to the bottom of her scripture bag.

“Lucinda has been asked to give a talk in Primary next week,” the note said.

Lucinda did not like giving talks. Standing up at the podium and looking out at all the children seated in the Primary room terrified her. She hated the way her voice shook and sounded so strange over the microphone. Even the little Sunbeams, she thought, did a better job.

Lucinda decided she would not show the note to her mom. If Mom didn’t know about the talk, then next week Lucinda could just tell Sister Fife that she had forgotten to prepare. It sounded like a good plan.

By Friday afternoon, Lucinda really had forgotten about the talk. As she sat in her room enjoying a new art project, she heard the phone ring. A few minutes later, Mom poked her head into Lucinda’s room.

“Lucinda, that was Sister Fife reminding you that you were asked to give a talk on Sunday.”

Lucinda flopped down on her bed. “I don’t want to give a talk,” she grumbled.

“But you always prepare such nice lessons for family home evening,” Mom said.

“But that’s with our family,” Lucinda said. “This is different. I get so scared speaking in front of everyone.”

“Heavenly Father will help you,” Mom said.

“But I’m still scared.”

“Well, if you really don’t want to do it, you’d better call Sister Fife and let her know,” Mom said.

Lucinda buried her face in her pillow. She was too shy to call the Primary president. That would be as scary as giving the talk. There was nothing else Lucinda could do. She got up and started writing.

All through church on Sunday, Lucinda worried about her talk. Every time she thought about it her stomach tightened and her heart started beating faster. Soon, she was sitting up front in the Primary room for Primary closing exercises.

Sister Fife called her name, and Lucinda walked to the microphone. She placed her talk on the podium and saw all the children and teachers. Lucinda's hands shook. She said a silent prayer and opened her mouth, but the words just wouldn't come out. Lucinda didn't know what to do. She stood there, staring down at her paper.

It got very quiet in the room. It seemed like a long time went by, and Lucinda was frozen with fear. Then she took a deep breath and started to speak. The words of her talk began rushing out. Before she knew what had happened, it was over.

As Lucinda sat down, a warm feeling spread through her chest. She knew that Heavenly Father had helped her. And if He could help her get through a talk, He could help her get through anything. ♦

Tremonton Eighth Ward

The Primary children of the Tremonton Eighth Ward, Tremonton Utah South Stake, had a pioneer activity day. They learned about pioneers, played pioneer games, and even made their own butter.

Peyton K., 8, Utah, likes to read, ride bikes, watch movies with her dad, and play with her cat and dog. She enjoys going to activity days and is working on her Faith in God Award. She tries to listen to the Holy Ghost and do what is right. She has one brother and two sisters.

Alex P., 12, Texas, went rafting one summer in Alaska. His guide gave him the correct clothing and lots of instructions. When he and the others in the raft followed those directions, they were safe. Alex realized that it was a good pattern to follow in life. He knows that listening to the instructions of prophets and the Holy Ghost will help keep him safe.

Alivia P., 9, Alaska, likes to play in the water and ride her bike. Her favorite colors are pink and purple. Her father is in the air force, and she has lived in South Dakota, Hawaii, and Alaska. She has a cat named Miss Boo.

Possible Ideas for Family Home Evening

1. Do the activity “What Do You See?” (page 34). Once you have figured out the pictures, find similar places in your own home. Discuss how these places can make your family more peaceful and loving.

2. Make a Sunday Jar. As a family, talk about keeping the Sabbath day holy and brainstorm activities that are Sunday-appropriate. (Look for ideas on pages 24–25.) Write these ideas on pieces of paper to put in a clean jar or cup. Put the jar in a room where the family will remember it. This way, your family will always have ideas for Sunday activities.

3. Read “Gifts of Courage” (page 2) and do the activity on page 3. Which of these gifts have your family members received? Which ones are they using now to give them courage?

4. Giving talks can be scary, as Lucinda finds out in “Fear Not” (pages 44–45). One thing that makes talks less scary is being prepared. As a family, brainstorm ideas for Primary talks. Have each child write a talk and practice giving it to the family.

5. Have a missionary-inspired night. Share stories and photos from missionaries or journals of returned missionaries, or cook food that a missionary you know might eat in his or her area. Then discuss how to prepare for a mission, using Elder Bednar’s thoughts as guidance (page 11).
