

SUNLIGHT

BY AUDREY K. CARLSON

Basking in the sun
I am not wet
But I am soaked to the bone
With happiness
As the colors of serenity
Weave through my skin.
Loftily I sing a song of praise
As the contentment that was once mine
Is spread to those around me.

