

NEW INTERVIEW GUIDELINES

On June 20, 2018, the First Presidency released new guidelines for interviewing youth. For instance, when you are interviewed, you have the option of bringing another person into the interview with you. Limited-Use Temple Recommend questions were also included with those guidelines. Have you thought about what is required of you to enter the Lord's house?

FIRSTS IN CHURCH HISTORY

Single Sister Missionaries

Inez Knight

Jennie Brimhall

At the April 1898 general conference, George Q. Cannon of the First Presidency announced that women could now be called to serve as missionaries.

In 1898, Inez Knight and Jennie Brimhall were called and set apart as missionaries to Great Britain. For more about their mission, see the online Church History article "They Can Bear Testimony, They Can Teach" at history.lds.org.

Currently, the Church has over 20,000 sister missionaries serving missions around the world.

100 YEARS AGO

This month marks 100 years since Joseph F. Smith had a vision, which we know as Doctrine and Covenants 138. On October 3, 1918, he learned more about the spirit world. He saw:

- Righteous spirits in spirit paradise, including Adam, Eve, Moses, Isaiah, and many others.
- The Savior teaching the gospel to these spirits between His death and Resurrection.
- Appointed messengers teaching in the spirit prison who had not yet heard or accepted the gospel.

For more about this vision, see the online article "Joseph F. Smith and the Vision of the Redemption of the Dead" at ensign.lds.org.

KEEP MINISTERING EFFORTS SIMPLE

1. Start out prayerfully.
2. Do what works best.
3. Be flexible, and let the Spirit lead.
