

Jason and Jackie Wong

Hong Kong, China

Views on gender roles can vary widely from culture to culture, but the challenge of becoming united as newlyweds seems to be universal. Jason and Jackie learned some important lessons as they worked together.

LESLIE NILSSON, PHOTOGRAPHER

Jason:

I grew up thinking that girls were supposed to do all the housework. I quickly learned that was not realistic. Jackie was very busy and under a lot of pressure with her job. While I'm under a lot of pressure too, I realized that I should start doing more to help.

Jackie:

Being a newlywed has been a change. Honestly speaking, God is super important within our relationship. Without God, we might have broken up!

Jason:

We realized that we needed to spend more time together. So now we do housework together. This helps us get it done, and we are able to be with each other.

Jackie:

We also try to take time in the evenings to talk about our day; then we pray and read the scriptures before we sleep. Living the gospel has blessed our marriage.

FIND MORE

See more about Jason and Jackie's journey of faith, including additional photos, in the online or Gospel Library version of this article.

President Russell M. Nelson testifies of the blessings of celestial marriage at lds.org/go/031906.