

The Stripling Warriors

The Book of Mormon tells about some young men who had to go to battle to protect their people and their families. They are called the stripling warriors. The word “stripling” means “young.”

These young soldiers had never been in a battle before. But they had a good captain to lead them. And they remembered what their mothers had taught them.

Their mothers had taught them to trust God. So the young men asked God to help them. They obeyed their captain. Then they fought bravely.

They won the battle! Some of them were hurt. But all of them lived. It was a miracle!

See Come, Follow Me for Alma 53–63.

I can listen to the good things my parents and leaders teach.
God will help me stand up for what is right. ●

Read about this story in Alma 56–57.