Dear Friends,

If you're seven or older, you probably already have the new booklet called Personal Development: Children's Guidebook. It's a fun way to grow, try new things, and become more like Jesus. On page 26 of this month's magazine, you can read about how some Primary children followed Jesus by being kind and inclusive. And you'll find a beautiful new song, “I Will Walk with Jesus,” on page 27.

Write and tell us how you're using your new guidebook to become more like Jesus!

Love,

The Friend

STANDARDS SEARCH!

Can you find a story in this issue that talks about clean language?

I found it! Page_____.

Bonus challenge!

Memorize this month's standard: “I will not swear or use crude words” (Children's Guidebook, 63).
When I was growing up, many people were out of work and homeless. The Relief Society president in our small branch was an older woman from Norway. She knew that God wanted her to care for those in need. So she asked her neighbors for old clothes. She washed the clothes and ironed them. Then she put them in cardboard boxes on her back porch. When someone needed clothes, her neighbors would say, “Go to the house down the street. There is a lady there who will give you what you need.”

This sister found out what God wanted her to do, and then she did it! She helped hundreds of Heavenly Father’s children who were in need.

In the Book of Mormon, Nephi teaches us to follow God’s commandments, no matter how hard they seem. He said, “I will go and do the things which the Lord hath commanded” (1 Nephi 3:7).

You show your trust in God when you listen to Him and then go and do whatever He asks.

Adapted from “Trust in God, Then Go and Do,” Ensign, Nov. 2010, 70–73.
President Eyring talked about a woman who helped hundreds of people. Follow the paths to see how these children made a difference!

Natalie laid her head on the back of her seat and looked out the window. She tried to focus on the houses and cars flashing past. But it wasn't easy. A bunch of older kids at the back of the bus were saying bad words again. Loudly. And it wasn't just swear words, either. The things they were talking about were not things Natalie wanted to hear.

Natalie wasn't the only one who felt uneasy. Her friend Katy frowned and stared down at her hands. Thomas looked at Natalie and shrugged his shoulders. The bad language was bothering all of them!

Natalie peeked back at the older kids. Then she hurried and turned around before anyone saw her. She could ask them to stop, but that thought made her stomach flip-flop. It probably wouldn't do much good anyway.

She decided to pray instead.

Dear Heavenly Father, she silently prayed. Please make them stop.

Natalie finished her prayer and waited. Nothing happened. The older kids kept saying the same bad words. Katy was still staring at her hands. Thomas still looked uncomfortable. Why didn't Heavenly Father do something? Why didn't He make them stop saying those bad words?

Please, Heavenly Father, she prayed silently.

Then a thought came into Natalie's mind: Talk to the bus driver.

She scrunched up her nose. Talk to the bus driver? What if he yelled at her? What if the older kids saw her and made fun of her?

The thought came again. Talk to the bus driver.
Natalie felt a peaceful feeling.

_Help me be brave, Heavenly Father_, she prayed.

As the bus pulled up to her stop, Natalie took a deep breath and walked up to the bus driver.

“Mr. Avery?”

“Yeah?”

“Um . . . some of the older kids in the back are saying really bad words,” Natalie said quietly. But then she felt a little braver. Her voice was a little stronger.

“It makes other kids and me uncomfortable. Is there something you could do about it? Please?”

Mr. Avery glanced at the back of the bus through the rearview mirror. He nodded.

“Thanks for telling me. I’ll talk to them.”

Natalie smiled and walked down the bus steps.
She hopped off the last one and skipped home. She was feeling much better.

The next day, Mr. Avery smiled at Natalie as she get on the bus. “I talked to our friends in the back of the bus,” he said. “I reminded them that what they say affects those around them. I told them I didn’t want any bad language on our bus anymore. Let me know if it happens again.”

Natalie grinned. “Thanks, Mr. Avery.”

Natalie had a happy feeling in her heart. Heavenly Father _had_ helped with the swearing. He didn’t make them stop. But He did help Natalie know what to do.
He helped her be brave. And next time she needed courage to speak up, she knew she could do it with His help.

Learning Little by Little
For 2 Nephi 26–30

God helps us learn about Him little by little (see 2 Nephi 28:30). He doesn’t expect us to know everything at once.

Sit in a circle to play this game. The first person says, “I’m going to church, and I’m going to bring ____.” The next person repeats what the first person said and adds their own item at the end. Continue going around the circle, repeating all the items and adding more one by one. Can you remember them all?

Banana Boats
Cut unpeeled bananas lengthwise about 1 inch (2.5 cm) deep, leaving 1/2 inch (1 cm) uncut at each of the ends.

Stuff the slit bananas with mini marshmallows and chocolate chips. Then wrap in foil and place them on a baking sheet. Bake at 350°F (180°C) for about 10 minutes.

Grape Bites
Stick toothpicks into individual grapes and dip them in yogurt. If you want, dip them in a topping, like shredded coconut or nuts.

Place grapes on a plate and freeze for about 2 hours.

Cowboy Salsa
Mix 1 can corn (drained), 1 can pinto beans (drained), 2 chopped tomatoes, 1 chopped avocado, and 1/4 cup Italian dressing. Serve with chips for dipping.

A TEMPLE FOR ÍTALO

He couldn’t wait to go inside someday!

By Sadey Ludlow
(Based on a true story)

“I love to see the temple. I’m going there someday” (Children’s Songbook, 95).

Ítalo was excited for the ward temple trip. They were going to the Recife Brazil Temple. It was 15 hours away!

Ítalo, his older brother, Henrique, and their parents left early in the morning. As they rode along, Ítalo kept thinking about something Mom had told him. “This year, you can see how beautiful the temple is from the outside,” she said. “Next year, you’ll be old enough to see how beautiful it is on the inside.”

Ítalo hadn’t been to any temple before. But he had been watching the new temple being built in Fortaleza, where his family lived. It was amazing!

They stopped for lunch. Ítalo had his favorite, feijoada, black bean stew with rice. While he ate, he kept thinking about the temple. When the temple in Fortaleza was finally dedicated, it would be a temple his family could visit over and over again. They wouldn’t have to drive so far.

The sun was setting when Ítalo and his family arrived at the temple in Recife. “Que bonito!” Ítalo said. “How beautiful!” He couldn’t stop smiling.

The next morning, Mom showed Ítalo where he would be waiting with his friends from the ward. “Even though you can’t go inside the temple yet,” she said, “pay attention to the special spirit you can feel while you’re on the temple grounds.” Then the rest of Ítalo’s family went inside the temple.
Members of the ward sat with Ítalo and the other children on the grass near the temple. They read stories from O Livro de Mórmon (the Book of Mormon) together. Reading scriptures is a good way to get ready for the temple, Ítalo thought. He felt calm and safe. Mom’s right, he thought. There is a special feeling here.

Then the adults took Ítalo and the other children for a walk around the temple grounds. That’s when Ítalo noticed the words over the entrance to the temple. "Santidade ao Senhor. A casa do Senhor," they said. "Holiness to the Lord: the House of the Lord."

No wonder I feel so peaceful here, he thought. This is God’s house.

When the temple trip was over, Ítalo and his family returned home. He wanted to remember how he had felt at the temple. What could he do?

Sometimes Ítalo felt he could draw his feelings better than he could write about them. So he drew a picture of the temple. Then he showed it to Mom and Dad.

“This will remind me of where I want to go,” he said. He kept the picture in his room where he could look at it each day.

“I want to be ready,” he said. “Because I want to go inside someday!”

Now I'm all ready to go!
When I was 11 years old, I loved basketball. My oldest brother loved it too. He played on the basketball team in college. He had to decide whether to serve a mission or keep playing on the team.

One night at dinner, he was talking with our family about whether or not to serve a mission. I just blurted out, “If you go on a mission, I’ll go on a mission.” Everyone was silent as my brother thought about what I said.

My brother did decide to go on a mission! In fact, all four of my brothers served missions. When it was time for me to decide whether or not to serve, it wasn’t a question. I had already made that choice!

Someone else who loved basketball helped me prepare for my mission too. His name is Devin Durrant, and he was one of my teammates in college. He became my hero.

He asked me if I knew what it felt like to make the winning shot in a basketball game. I said yes. Then he said, “It’s great. But it can’t compare to how you’ll feel when you teach and baptize someone on your mission.” I never forgot that.

Through these great examples in my life, Heavenly Father showed me that His work was more important than basketball. What matters most is living the gospel of Jesus Christ so we can live with Heavenly Father again.

As soon as the bell rang, Lincoln started walking to the parking lot as fast as he could. He couldn’t wait to get home from school!

He stood on his tiptoes, looking at all the buses and cars in the pickup lane. Classmates rushed by him, laughing and talking. But Lincoln didn’t feel like joining them. He prayed that his mom would get there soon.

Finally he saw their blue minivan.

“Hi, buddy,” Mom said as the van door slid open. Lincoln climbed in and pulled the door shut. All the noise went quiet. It was like he had clicked the mute button on the TV remote.

Lincoln sighed with relief. The quiet felt so good.

“How was your day?” Mom asked.

Instead of answering, Lincoln started to cry.

Mom looked at him in the rearview mirror.

“Uh oh, what happened?” she asked. “Are you OK? Did you get hurt?”

Lincoln wanted to answer, but his throat felt tight. Even if he could talk, he didn’t know what to say.

“I don’t know,” he finally mumbled.

“You don’t know why you’re crying?” Mom asked.

Lincoln shrugged. “I feel worried and nervous and scared, and I don’t even know why!” He cried harder, glad that he didn’t have to hold it in anymore.

“It sounds like you are feeling anxious,” Mom said. “Sometimes I feel like that too. I actually feel that way a lot.”

“You do?” Lincoln asked, wiping his cheeks with his sleeve.

Lincoln nodded. That sounded like his day today! He was glad he wasn’t the only one who felt this way sometimes.

But there was still something he didn’t understand.

“At church I learned that when we choose the right, we feel good inside,” Lincoln said. “I don’t think I did anything bad today, but I still feel terrible!”

Mom looked at him with a smile. “Our feelings can be funny like that. Not all unhappy feelings are because of bad choices. There are lots of reasons we can feel unhappy or anxious. Sometimes we don’t even know why we feel the way we do.”

Lincoln thought about that during the rest of the drive. He was glad his anxious feelings weren’t because of something he did wrong. When they got home, they said a prayer together and asked Heavenly Father for help. Then Mom helped him figure out some things he could try to feel better.

First Lincoln got a snack. Then he played with his toys for a while. After that, he read a few chapters of a book he had gotten for his birthday.

Pretty soon, his body felt more relaxed. The nervous thoughts weren’t racing through his brain anymore.

Lincoln thanked Heavenly Father for helping him feel better and learn more about his feelings. He could use the ideas he’d learned next time he felt anxious too. Things were going to be OK!

It was Sunday, and my family and I were watching videos about service. We saw one about some people who helped others from another village who had lost their homes.* They even closed the school and let 11 families live there.

I decided I wanted to help too. I asked my parents if we could have a garage sale and donate the money we earned to the village. My mom told me she didn’t know how to send the money straight to the village, but we could donate the money to the Church Humanitarian Aid Fund. She explained that the Humanitarian Aid Fund uses the money to help places like that village.

I went to my room and looked for toys I could sell in the garage sale. My mom and other family members helped find other things we could sell. I made a goal for how much money I wanted to donate.

We had our garage sale on a Saturday morning and were able to raise most of the money. We donated the things we didn’t sell to a thrift store. I also donated some of my money from chores to help reach the goal, and my parents told me they would help too.

Finally I was able to reach my goal and donate the money for people like the villagers who had lost their homes. It might take longer for me to save up for things I want after donating some of my money, but I’m glad I was able to help them. My mom said that doing this blessed our family because we were helping others.

Who Am I?
Match each person with their story.

1 God warned me He was going to flood the earth. He told me to build a huge ship called an ark so my family and the animals could survive.

2 We were on a boat with Jesus when a storm came. Jesus calmed the wind and the waves.

3 My brother and I built ships to travel to a promised land. I asked God to make stones glow to give us light in our ships.

4 Our boat couldn’t land because the harbor was frozen! I led our group in prayer asking God for help. The ice broke long enough for our boat to pass through.

Build Your Own

Use half of an avocado skin as the main part of a ship.

Glue or tape craft sticks together to make a floating raft.
Nephi Builds a Ship
Use this script to act out parts of 1 Nephi 17.

Narrator: After Nephi’s family traveled through the wilderness, they came to an ocean. The Lord told Nephi to make tools and build a ship.

[Nephi is building. Laman and Lemuel walk over]
Nephi: Brothers, come help me build our boat!
Laman: No! You don’t know how to build something like that.

Lemuel: You are foolish, like our father.
Nephi: The Lord will lead us to a promised land, just like He led the people of Moses. I’m sad you don’t believe God’s promises.

Laman: [angrily turning to Lemuel] Let’s throw him in the ocean!

[Laman and Lemuel try to grab Nephi, but Nephi steps back.]
Nephi: I can do anything God commands me to do.

[Nephi stretches his hand toward Laman and Lemuel. They start shaking and fall on their knees.]
Laman: I felt the power of the Lord!

Lemuel: I did too! It made me shake!

[Nephi helps them to their feet.]
Nephi: I hope you will believe in God. Now let’s finish this boat together.
Narrator: Nephi and his family finished their ship and sailed to the promised land.

Once I went to a family reunion in another state. It was a lot of fun. When Sunday came, I was nervous to go to a different ward. The only people I knew at church were my family. I wanted to stay home, but I knew going to church was important.

When we got to Primary, my nervous feeling went away a little. I started to feel comfortable with the other kids. They shared their scriptures with me, they talked to me, and they helped me answer questions. We became friends.

I was glad I went to church and thankful that everyone was so nice to me. I hope I get to go to that ward and see my friends sometime again.

“The Lord God will help me” (2 Nephi 7:7).

“This is going to be great!” Sterling said as he looked out the truck window. The sun was just rising over the horizon. The range stretched as far as he could see, full of sagebrush, a few twisted cedar trees, and one lonely cabin.

“Yeah!” his friend Glen said back. “I can’t wait to ride the range with Marcus.”

“And eat his famous sourdough biscuits,” Sterling said. Sterling’s dad drove up to the cabin and parked the truck. He was dropping them off to help Marcus with their families’ cattle. The boys ran to the cabin as the 70-year-old cowherder walked out, smiling big. A cowboy hat covered his head.

“Here are my cowhands!” Marcus said. “I was starting to think you wouldn’t make it. I’m sure glad to see you.” Marcus spoke a few minutes with Sterling’s dad, then waved as the dust settled behind the truck.

Marcus fed them breakfast—delicious sourdough biscuits, eggs, and bacon. Then they saddled their horses and began riding the range, looking for cattle who were wandering. They set out big blocks of salt for the cattle to lick so they would be healthy.

After lunch they rode under the cloudless sky to a far corner of the range. It was hot and dusty, so Marcus led them to a spring of water to have a drink and cool off. Soon they were ready to get back to work.

But as Marcus swung his leg over his horse, his sharp spurs accidentally hit the horse under the tail. The horse bucked and threw Marcus to the ground on top of a big rock. Marcus screamed in pain.

“Marcus!” yelled Glen.

“Are you OK?” said Sterling.

“I can’t move,” Marcus moaned. Then his eyes closed. He had passed out!

The boys looked at each other, eyes wide. “What should we do?” said Sterling.

“We need to find someone to help us,” said Glen.

“He needs a doctor.”

Sterling and Glen were scared. They were miles away from other people and didn’t have phones to call for help. They didn’t even know exactly where they were.

“I’ll be right back,” Sterling said. He walked around a pile of rocks, knelt in the dirt, and bowed his head. “Heavenly Father, Marcus is really hurt, and we don’t know how to help. Please let me know what to do.”

Sterling heard a clear voice in his head. Ride north.

He hurried back to Glen and Marcus. “I’m going to find help,” he said to Glen. “You stay here with Marcus.” Glen looked relieved.

Sterling climbed on his horse and started riding north. After about an hour of nothing but sky and sagebrush, he saw a cloud of dust in the distance. A truck was coming slowly across the range. Sterling galloped to the truck and waved it down. It was two sheepherders looking for their lost sheep!

Sterling told them about Marcus. The sheepherders knew where the spring was and drove right to Marcus and Glen. They carefully lifted Marcus into the back of the truck and drove him to the hospital. Sterling and Glen took the horses back to Marcus’s cabin and waited for their parents to pick them up.

“Thank you, Heavenly Father,” Sterling prayed quietly. “Thank you for helping us help Marcus.”

A few months later, Sterling saw Marcus after his broken bones had healed. “There’s my brave, smart cow-hand!” Marcus said. “Thanks for saving my life with your quick thinking.”

Sterling smiled. He was glad Marcus was OK. “It wasn’t me,” he said. “I was just following Heavenly Father’s directions.”

Paper-Plate Hearts

Make this craft to share with someone you love.

- paper plates
- scissors
- hole punch
- yarn

1. Fold a paper plate in half and use scissors to cut out a heart.
2. Unfold the plate and punch holes around the heart. (If you don’t have a hole punch, you could use a pen to poke the holes.)
3. Thread yarn through one of the holes and tie a knot to keep it in place. Then loop the yarn through a hole across from your knot.
4. Keep looping your yarn through all the holes until it’s crisscrossed across the heart. Tie a knot at the end.
5. At the top of the plate, punch another hole and tie a piece of yarn through it to hang it up.

Brazilian Limeade

In Brazil, this frosty drink is called limonada suíça. Be sure to get an adult’s help.

- 3 limes
- 4 cups water
- 14-oz can sweetened condensed milk (about 396 g)
- 1 cup ice

1. Cut off the ends of the limes. Then cut the limes into wedges.
2. Put the limes and water in a blender. Pulse 5–7 times. Then strain the juice using a mesh strainer.
3. Put juice back in blender and add sweetened condensed milk. Blend until smooth and frothy. Add ice to blender and blend again. Enjoy!

Josie yawned as she slowed her jog to a walk. Today was the big race! She had been looking forward to this day for months. But instead of feeling excited during warm-ups, Josie felt tired.

“How’s it going?” her older sister, Christine, asked. She sat down with Josie on the grass so they could stretch their legs.

“I’m really tired today,” Josie said, reaching for her toes. She had been sick and had to miss several days of school. So last night she stayed up late catching up on her schoolwork.

“I hope I don’t let our team down,” Josie said. “Just do the best you can,” Christine said. “Looks like we’re about to start!”

The girls jogged over to join their teammates. As they lined up with the other runners, Josie closed her eyes and took a deep breath. She knew her team was counting on her to run fast, like she usually did. The race time from the top five runners on their team would determine whether their team went on to the finals. She barely had time to get in position when the gun sounded to start the race. Bang! The runners pushed off the starting line and sprinted forward.

Josie pumped her arms and lengthened her steps. She knew she needed to get ahead in the beginning if she wanted to be a top finisher. At first Josie could keep up with the other lead runners. But when she tried to run faster, she couldn’t.
Josie breathed harder. She just couldn’t get her legs to move any faster. The runners behind her started passing her. Usually Josie was the one doing the passing! Maybe I should just give up, she thought.
Josie looked down at the ground as she heard another runner pass her. “Keep going, Josie!” the runner said as she ran by. Josie looked up. Then she smiled. It was one of her teammates.
“You can do it!” another teammate said as she ran past. One by one as Josie’s teammates passed her, they encouraged her to keep running.
Josie felt a surge of determination. Maybe she wouldn’t be in the top five, but she could still finish the race. She focused on her steps and didn’t stop until she finally crossed the finish line.

“I’m sorry I . . . didn’t help us . . . qualify for the next race,” she said between big breaths.

“Our team did qualify!” Josie’s coach said as she ran over to the girls. Everyone on the team cheered, and Christine threw her arms around Josie in a big hug.
That night as Josie knelt to pray, she thought about how her teammates had helped her. Their words gave her strength to keep going when she wanted to quit.
Josie looked up at the picture of Jesus hanging above her bed. Jesus does the same thing for us, she thought. She smiled as she imagined the Savior cheering her on.

“Keep going, Josie! I am here to help you.” She wanted to help others too.
Josie thanked Heavenly Father for His help in running the race and for her wonderful teammates. She felt like she could do anything with Jesus cheering her on! ●

Dear Afraid,

All people who are really good at something started out as beginners! You won’t be an expert when you first try, and that’s OK. It’s all part of the adventure! When you mess up, just try again. Life is about learning and growing.

You can do it!

Come, Follow Me
for Little Ones

Here are some activity ideas for toddlers and young children that go along with each week’s reading.

For 2 Nephi 1–5
Read 2 Nephi 2:6 together and help your little ones say, "Jesus Christ saved me." Watch a sing-along video about the Savior at children.ChurchofJesusChrist.org. Then color or draw a picture of Jesus together (see page FJ7 in the April or May 2019 Friend) and hang it somewhere you’ll see it this week.

For 2 Nephi 6–10
Read 2 Nephi 10:23 together and help your little ones say, "I can make good choices." Flip through the Friend and help your children smile and give a thumbs up—or whatever gesture means “good job” in your culture—whenever you find a picture of someone making a good decision.

For 2 Nephi 11–25
Read 2 Nephi 12:2 and help your little ones say, "The temple is the house of the Lord." Then use items around your house to build a model temple. You could look at pictures of different temples in the photo gallery at temples.ChurchofJesusChrist.org.

For 2 Nephi 26–30
Read 2 Nephi 28:2 and help your little ones say, "We love the Book of Mormon!" Help your children act out some Book of Mormon stories. (For example, page 25 has a simple script you could use.) Or watch a video at BookofMormonVideos.org.
Hi, Friends!

I handed my dad his tools while he was fixing his truck!
Will, age 5, Utah, USA

I like to paint temples on rocks and hide them in the park for people to find!
Evie, age 3, Arkansas, USA

The Friend helps us with our home evening!
Aaron and Isabella, ages 2 and 5, Santiago, Chile

I say my prayers.
Eli, age 4, Victoria, Australia
Layla Makes Good Choices

Layla likes making good choices! In the morning, Layla helps put bowls on the table for breakfast. In the afternoon, Layla plays quietly while Mommy rocks the baby. In the evening, Layla puts on her pajamas when Daddy asks. Good choices make Layla and Mommy and Daddy happy! When we make good choices, we are following Jesus.

See Come, Follow Me for 2 Nephi 1–5.
I Can Make Good Choices

Heavenly Father is happy when we choose the right!
Point to the good choices.
One day in the wilderness, Nephi’s hunting bow broke. His family was worried. They didn’t know how they would get food without it.

See Come, Follow Me for 1 Nephi 16–22.
Nephi had faith. He made a new bow and arrow. His father, Lehi, prayed for help.

They looked at the Liahona. It was a special compass the Lord gave them. When they kept the commandments, the Liahona showed them where to go.

Nephi was able to find food for his family!
When bad or sad things happen, I won’t give up! Heavenly Father will help me solve problems.

Read about this story in 1 Nephi 16.
How can you be brave like Nephi?
David, Mom, and Grandma got out of the car. David was holding two toy dinosaurs. He made noises like they were roaring at each other.

“Don’t forget Grandma’s cane,” Mom said.

“OK,” David said. He got the cane. He gave it to Grandma.

“Thank you,” she said. Usually her smile was big. But today it was small.

They went inside. Grandma said she needed to take a nap. David played with his dinosaurs in the kitchen. Mom made dinner.

“Is Grandma sad?” David asked.

“She is missing her friends,” Mom said. “Now that she lives with us, she doesn’t see them very much.”

I would miss my friends if I couldn’t see them, David thought. He wanted Grandma to be happy.

Then David had an idea. He got his markers. He made a big card. He drew lots of dinosaurs on it.

“Mom,” David said. “Can you help me write some words?”

“Sure,” Mom said.
When they finished, David took the card to Grandma’s room. He knocked softly on the door. “Come in,” Grandma said. She was lying on the bed, but she wasn’t asleep. “I made you a present,” David said.

Grandma opened the card. She read, “Free hugs every day! From, David and the dinosaurs.”

Grandma smiled a big smile. “Thank you, David,” she said. “I love hugs. But the dinosaurs don’t need to hug me. Just you.”

David laughed. He gave Grandma a big hug. He loved his grandma!
