

Figure It Out Together

When I feel like I'm losing my faith, I talk to my mom and dad, and we figure things out together. Sometimes we sing an uplifting song afterward so that we can feel the Spirit.

Emmalie C., age 15, Colorado, USA

Ask Your Parents

In addition to praying directly to Heavenly Father, we can ask our parents how we can return to Him and recover our faith.

Elías S., age 12, Paysandú, Uruguay

Pray, Reach Out, and Read

As a person who dwindled in faith, there are three things I did to recover. First, I prayed. Praying for strength and to know what I should do worked well. Second, I told close friends, and they helped me immensely when I needed it. Third, I read scriptures. Many of them relate to faith and can help us regain it.

Jack J., age 14, Florida, USA

Why does God allow war?

War has been part of the story of mankind on this earth since almost the beginning. But the Lord, the Prince of Peace, does not want us to wage war with one another. He weeps when people choose not to love one another and “are without affection, and . . . hate their own blood” (Moses 7:33), corrupting the earth through violence (see Genesis 6:11–13). Those whose wickedness brings war to the earth will be judged for their actions.

The Lord has commanded His people to “renounce war and proclaim peace” (D&C 98:16). However, when nations do take up arms against each other, the Lord has also said that we are sometimes justified in defending our families, nations, and freedoms against destruction, tyranny, and oppression (see Alma 43:45–47; Alma 46:12–13; D&C 134:11). And Latter-day Saints who serve in their nations’ militaries are upholding the principle of “being subject to kings, presidents, rulers, and magistrates” (Articles of Faith 1:12).

For more, see Gordon B. Hinckley, “War and Peace,” Apr. 2003 general conference; “War,” Gospel Topics, topics.lds.org.

Responses are intended for help and perspective, not as official pronouncements of Church doctrine.

Tell Us What You Think

“How can my patriarchal blessing help me make decisions?”

Submit your answer and, if desired, a high-resolution photograph by May 15, 2018, at liahona.lds.org (click “Submit an Article or Feedback”).

Responses may be edited for length or clarity.