Anton-Hymns

Time to test your song knowledge! The main words in each hymn title have been replaced with their antonyms—words or phrases that mean the opposite. Can you figure out the real titles of these “anton-hymns”?

1. Low under the Valley Bottom
2. A Rich Standstill Woman of Joy
3. Less Wickedness Take You
4. You’ll Stay Where I Force You to Stay
5. Gather Darkness
6. You Sit Underwhelmed
7. As Brothers Out of Babylon

Easter Egg Life Hack

Want to teach your family a simple trick that’ll leave them breathless with wonder (or at least mildly impressed)? Use a white crayon to write or draw designs on your eggs before dying them. Wherever you draw will stay un-dyed. Cool!

I accidentally threw my talk away while cleaning this week. I’ve learned to not write my talk early and to clean less.

Hold on, I thought. I told you that you couldn’t leave until you took care of your room.

I did take care of it! I registered it as a project on JustServe.org. Volunteers should be here soon.

The Wondrous World of Stick-Based Youth Activities

WHAT MOOD DO YOU MOST WANT TO CAPTURE DURING YOUR NEXT YOUTH ACTIVITY?

- Life-alteringly awesome
- Detective-ish
- Board game-ish
- Athletic
- Competitive
- Artistic

Are you feeling pioneer-ish?

- Yes
  - Hold a "stick pull" contest.

- No
  - Decorate and hide two sticks; then play "capture the stick (flag)."

Want to work in teams?

- Yes
  - Divide into teams. Each team finds a stick about 12 inches long. Run a relay soccer race where each player kicks the team’s stick to an agreed-upon point and back.

- No
  - Play hangman or layered tic-tac-toe (see Fun Stop, New Era, Dec. 2019) in the dirt.

Want to work as individuals?

- Yes
  - Play a "Pictionary"-type game of drawing pictures in the dirt with sticks and guessing the drawings.

- No
  - Hold a drawing-in-the-dirt art contest on a theme of your choice.
