

A sepia-toned historical photograph of a stone quarry. In the foreground, several men in work clothes and hats are standing among large, rectangular stone blocks. Some are looking towards the camera, while others are engaged in work. The background shows more stone blocks and workers, with a large, domed structure and a small house visible in the distance. The overall scene depicts a busy, traditional stone quarrying operation.

DOES YOUR SPIRITUAL FOUNDATION
NEED A SEISMIC UPGRADE?